Call for Papers

E-Services are all the more important in this globalized, knowledge-based society, and their sustainable innovations are indispensable for our better quality of life. The IIAI/ACIS International Symposium on Innovative E-Services and Information Systems (IEIS 2012), to be held in 11th IEEE/ACIS ICIS, brings together scientists, engineers, computer users, and students to exchange and share their experiences, new ideas, and research results about all aspects (theory, applications and tools) of E-Services and Information Systems, and discuss the practical challenges encountered and the solutions adopted. The conference will cover a broad set of research topics including, but not limited to, the following:

- B2B, B2C, C2C e-services
- e-commerce
- e-tourism
- e-marketing
- e-marketplaces, e-hubs, and portals
- e-payment systems
- e-service content management
- e-negotiations, auctioning & contracting
- e-government, policy and law
- e-school
- e-learning
- e-medicine and e-hospital
- e-collaborations
- Inter-organizational systems for e-services
- e-services with multi-agent systems
- Semantic Web ontologies, rules and services
- Dynamic pricing models
- P2P-computing for e-services
- User behavior modeling
- Innovative business models for e-services
- Web Services, grid services and service-oriented computing
- Web intelligence, agents and personalization
- Context-Aware, Location-based and Autonomous Computing
- Consumer protection in e-services
- Security, Privacy, Trust and Reputation for e-services

All accepted papers will be provided as oral presentations at the symposium, and will IEEE Computer Society (as part of proceedings of IEEE/ACIS ICIS 2012). The proceedings will be index in the EI (Compendex), ISI CONFERENCE PROCEEDINGS CITATION INDEX (Thomson Reuter Web of Knowledge), Inspec, DBLP, and several major citation indexes. Also, all of presented papers are included in IEEE Digital Library (IEEE Xplore).

Among the presented papers, selected papers are invited to be published in IJCIS (International Journal of Computer and Information Science) and IEE (Information Engineering Express). Also, for the post-conference publication, several special issues in journals including SCI/EI-indexed are planned.

Accommodation

Pine City Hotel, located in the center of Shanghai, provides high-quality services. Shanghai is one of the best cultural, financial, commercial, and industrial centers both of China and of the world.

Paper Submissions

The symposium is soliciting Full papers (4-6 pages) on all aspects of the above research areas. Submitted papers will be strictly peer-reviewed by at least two PC members and/or experts in the field, and evaluated on significance, originality, technical quality, and exposition. They should clearly establish a research contribution.

Format Guidelines: We only accept submissions in the double-columned IEEE CS style format. (See the IEEE CS home page). All submissions must include the author's name(s), affiliation, complete mailing address, phone number, fax number and email address. All papers must be submitted in PDF format via the online submission system of the symposium.

Important Dates

- December 15, 2011: Deadline of Full-length Paper Submission
- January 15, 2012: Notification of Acceptance of Submitted Papers
- January 31, 2012: Deadline of Final Camera-ready Paper Submission
Deadline of Registration
- May 29-30, 2012: Symposium
